Program Guide

In addition to rigorous academic content that can be found at every DC Public School, a number of specialized programs are offered at schools to further enrich student experiences in the classroom.

Dual Language

At DCPS dual language schools, students study grade-level content in both English and Spanish, developing reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills in every grade and subject. Dual language is offered at the following schools:

Bancroft Elementary School	page 6
Bruce-Monroe Elementary School at Park View	page 6
Cleveland Elementary School	page 7
Columbia Heights Education Campus	pages 13, 16
Houston Elementary School	page 8
MacFarland Middle School	page 14
Oyster-Adams Bilingual School	pages 10, 14
Powell Elementary School	page 10
Marie Reed Elementary School at MacFarland	page 9
Roosevelt High School	page 16
Tyler Elementary School	page 12

Extended-Year

To provide students with more time and opportunity to deepen their learning in core subjects and explore other areas of interest like the arts and foreign languages, DCPS has added an additional 20 days of learning to the school year at 11 schools. The following schools have adopted an extended-year schedule:

Garfield Elementary School	page 7
H.D. Cooke Elementary School	page 7
Hart Middle School	page 14
Hendley Elementary School	page 8
Johnson Middle School	page 14
Kelly Miller Middle School	page 14
King Elementary School	page 8
Thomas Elementary School	page 12
Randle Highlands Elementary School	page 10
Raymond Education Campus	pages 10, 14
Turner Elementary School	page 12

Schoolwide Enrichment Model (SEM)

At SEM schools, students participate in unique programming that allows them to study topics of their own choosing in an environment that emphasizes student inquiry and self-directed learning. Students experience frequent field trips and host in-class guests to better understand the enriching topics they are studying and the academic passions they are developing. SEM is offered at the following schools:

Burrville Elementary School	page 6
H.D. Cooke Elementary School	page 7
Hardy Middle School	page 14
Hearst Elementary School	page 8
J.O. Wilson Elementary School	page 8
Kelly Miller Middle School	page 14
Murch Elementary School	page 10
Sousa Middle School	page 15
Stoddert Elementary School	page 12
Stuart-Hobson Middle School	page 15
Tubman Elementary School	page 12
West Education Campus	pages 12, 15

District-Wide Offerings

DCPS believes that all students deserve access to enriching experiences that augment their learning in core subjects. Here are some of the many offerings that all students have opportunities to participate in.

Arts Education

DCPS students participate in a variety of arts instruction across all grades, which include music, visual art, and performing arts. Learn more: dcps.dc.gov/page/art-dance-drama-music-and-visual-arts

College & Career

DCPS offers resources and experiences to prepare high school students for success in college and career, including paid internships, job skills trainings, and college and career field trips. Learn more: dcps.dc.gov/collegecareer

Early Learning

DCPS offers free, high-quality, full day prekindergarten education to 3 and 4 year olds across all Wards in Washington, DC. Learn more: dcps.dc.gov/page/early-childhood-academic-programs

PE, Health, & Athletics

From PK3 through high school, all DCPS students receive health and physical education. In addition to PE and health instruction, there is also a wide variety of afterschool athletic programs available to students. Learn more at dcps.dc.gov/page/health-and-physical-education. Learn more about extracurricular athletics at thedciaa.com.

World Language

All DCPS students from PK3 through high school receive world language instruction. At least one of seven world languages is offered at every DCPS school, including American Sign Language, Arabic, French, Italian, Latin, Mandarin Chinese, and Spanish. Learn more: dcps.dc.gov/page/world-languages

FAMILY ENGAGEMENT

Family engagement is critical to student success. DCPS makes it a priority to build trusting relationships between parents and teachers via home visits. Home visits provide opportunities for teachers and families to share their hopes, dreams, and expectations for their student's learning. Learn more: dcps.dc.gov/page/family-engagement
